

JOIN US FOR A
COMMUNITY EVENT
ON THREATENED SPECIES

SUNDAY 22ND MAY, 10:30 AM - 2:30 PM
CHILTERN SENIOR CITIZENS HALL, 84 CONNESS ST

Trust for Nature is hosting a community event on threatened species of the Chiltern-Mt Pritch area and we would love you to join us.

The event will feature Sean Dooley, national bird watching champion, author of The Big Twitter and editor of Australian Birdlife Magazine.

North east biodiversity experts Glen Johnson and Darrel Pendavigh will share their extensive knowledge on the region's fauna.

You will learn about the ecology of species like the Squame Gilder and Hooded Robin, and practical ways you can help protect these species in your own backyard.

We will begin the day with morning tea, followed by speakers. After lunch, (and weather permitting) we will visit a private property where Sean will lead a walk and talk on his favourite subject, birds. We hope to see you there!

Please RSVP with any dietary requirements by Thursday 19th May to Will Ford on 0418 300 969 or will@tn.org.au

This event is part of Trust for Nature's Private Land Action for Threatened Species Project funded by the Victorian Government's Threatened Species Protection Initiative

Trust for Nature works with private landowners in Victoria to protect the native plants and wildlife on their properties in perpetuity. We use a number of methods including voluntary conservation covenants, land purchase, a Revolving Fund and ongoing land stewardship programs. Get in touch to see how you can help us protect biodiversity on your land and across the state.

Trust for Nature is a not-for-profit and values your support. All contributions of $2 and over are tax-deductible.
